WELCOME

German mathematician Johannes Stöffler concluded that 2.25.1524 would be the end... Because the planets would align, making a water sign. Thus, the world could expect a flood. It should come as no surprise that in 1666 many Christians believed the world would be over. You stir in the Great London Fire tragedy that started on September 2 of that year, and you have an overwhelming evidence. And then, you have Halley's Comet that passes by the earth every 76 years or so. In 1910, Yerkes Observatory in Chicago announced that the tail of the comet had a poisonous gas, called cyanogen, and that it would end all life. Scammers sold "anti-comet pills," and safe rooms were prepared. Space fails to talk of the 1982 LA earthquakes, The Jupiter Effect of 1998, Y2K, and the 2012 Maya Apocalypse. We are determined that the world will end... And it will. But not because of a computer bug, a comet, or the number 666. It will end because of the gospel. Let's take a minute and talk about that.
