WELCOME

He was one of the roughest, toughest, intimidating people you would ever encounter. As a Centurion in the Roman legions, he had literally fought his way to the top ranks. Roman troops were not known for their gentleness. They were trained and skilled at taking life and taking orders. This day, the Centurion’s orders were to oversee another crucifixion of men Rome deemed to be a threat. More than that, the crucifixion would be over the Jewish High Holy Day of Passover. But there was something different, commanding, unique about the man on the middle cross. The Centurion’s attention was riveted on this man, Jesus. “Who is this man?” he kept asking himself. By the end of the day, the Centurion answered his own question. That question still echoes through the ages. It’s a question we all have to answer for ourselves. Welcome to Campion.
