Welcome

What would you buy if you heard that one day the world would stop working? For some the question is not “would” but “did”. That is, what did you buy 20 years ago when we were told the world would stop working [otherwise remembered as Y2K]? The news articles are full of tales - batteries, generators, canned food, bottled water, and flashlights were some of the most popular. Individuals admitted to spending thousands of dollars in preparation and businesses tens of thousands to be ready when the world went dark. Now with Y2K some 20 years in the rearview mirror, could it be that the lessons from that uncertain time be revisited? Through the lenses of the Christmas story, our teaching mini-series takes us there. Welcome to Campion.
