WELCOME

In 2012 Robert Samuel first got paid to wait in line (He earned $325 to wait 19 hours for an iPhone 5), since then he's had many jobs in New York City waiting for everything from movie tickets to pastries. Samuel and others have started businesses that provide line-waiting services to people who don't have the time, hate the hassle, or want to avoid the discomfort of waiting all night on a sidewalk before Black Friday. While paying for a spot in line seems excessive, most of us would probably agree that we'd rather do something else with our time than wait. But what if we're waiting on God? What if we're thinking, 'This all seems wrong'? Are we wasting our time? This morning we'll look at a saga of waiting that's recorded in Genesis. Welcome to Campion.
